Welcome to the Congress

I am pleased to invite you to participate in the 2013 IASR World Congress on Suicide, which will be held in beautiful Montreal from June 10 to 13.

Suicide has a terrible toll on most, if not all, societies around the world. Although we have made significant progress over the last decades in our understanding of risk factors for suicide, as well as in intervention and prevention strategies, much has yet to be learned and remains to be done.

The 2013 IASR World Congress is the first of its kind. It is the first meeting of the International Academy for Suicide Research (IASR), organized by the Quebec Suicide Research Network (RQRS), in partnership with the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP), and in collaboration with the Association québécoise de prévention du suicide (AQPS), the Canadian Association for Suicide Prevention (CASP) and the Fédération Trauma Suicide Liaison Urgence (TSLU). This meeting will provide an inspiring forum for high level discussions on suicide research, suicide prevention and intervention.

The theme of the congress is Suicide: From research to practice. We are planning a number of timely and stimulating plenary sessions to discuss contemporary issues on suicide research, avenues for suicide prevention and innovative ways to intervene on suicidal behavior. Other sessions will offer unique opportunities for engaged dialogue between researchers and clinicians, stakeholders and decision-makers, promoting both translation of research findings to practice, as well as informing research direction by clinical and prevention needs.

I am excited by the high-caliber content of all planned congress activities, and I am sure you will be stimulated by this meeting. On behalf of all the members of the organizing team, and all our partners, I would like to express to all participants, faculty, and congressmen, a cordial welcome.

First IASR world congress in North America

The Québec Suicide research Network (RQRS) in collaboration with the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP) are pleased to present the first IASR world congress to be held in North America. The RQRS and AFSP invite any individuals, organizations or companies interested in contributing to this exceptional event, which will offer a unique opportunity to hear from and to discuss with international leaders in suicide and suicidal behavior research.

About the 2013 Congress

From research to practice

The 2013 world congress of the International Academy for Suicide Research (IASR), entitled, “Suicide. From research to practice” will assemble the expertise, resources and members of the Québec Suicide Research Network (RQRS) and the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP) as well as their Canadian and European collaborators.

From research to practice

The objectives of the congress:

- Bring together researchers and stakeholders from all backgrounds to share their knowledge and their viewpoints on various aspects of the suicide phenomenon;
- Identify the needs in research as well as in intervention, prevention and postvention;
- Share information among researchers, students, stakeholders, health professionals, policy makers and citizens including recent discoveries, pertinent studies, and current practices, with respect to how they inform our understanding and might guide future directions;
- Stimulate collaborations;
- Create a permissive environment for networking;
- Investigate interventions, services and strategies with unique efficiency and impact in other healthcare fields and how they might be applicable to any aspect of suicide.

About the Organizers

The International Academy for Suicide Research is an organization that promotes high standards of research and scholarship in the field of suicidal behaviour by fostering communication and cooperation among scholars engaged in such research.

The Academy's official publication is the Archives of Suicide Research, a peer-reviewed journal published by Taylor-Francis.

The Academy holds annual scientific and business meetings, which have been held in conjunction with conferences presented by the International Association for Suicide Prevention, the European Symposium on Suicide and Suicidal Behaviour, and the American Association of Suicidology.

The RQRS is one of the research networks established by the Fonds de recherche Québec – Santé (FRQS). Created in 2009, the RQRS brings together a multidisciplinary team of healthcare workers and scientists in Québec to focus on suicide research and intervention.

RQRS Mission

The mission of the RQRS is to promote multidisciplinary research that will lead to the better characterization of suicide, the development of better intervention strategies, and the prevention of suicide. Through the engagement of the scientific and healthcare communities, the RQRS creates opportunities to leverage research financing, develops new strategic initiatives, and communicates scientific information with the public. The RQRS further promotes better understanding and better intervention for people and populations at risk, and aims to bring together Québec's science and policy leaders to solidify Quebec's membership within international networks and organizations.

The RQRS is interested in the neurobiological aspects of suicide and clinical intervention, specifically in the quality and adequacy of services provided to people or populations at risk. The RQRS is open to all those interested in suicide research including researchers, health professionals, clinicians, policy makers, and the general public.

American Foundation for Suicide Prevention

Founded in 1987 by a number of leading experts on suicide, business and community leaders and survivors of suicide, the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP) is the leading national, not-for-profit organization exclusively dedicated to understanding and preventing suicide through research, education and advocacy, and to reaching out to people with mental disorders and those impacted by suicide.

To fully achieve its mission, the AFSP engages in the following Five Core Strategies:

- Fund scientific research
- Offer educational programs for professionals
- Educate the public about mood disorders and suicide prevention
- Promote policies and legislation that impact suicide and prevention
- Provide programs and resources for survivors of suicide loss and people at risk, and involve them in the work of the Foundation

Association québécoise de prévention du suicide

Founded in 1986, the Association québécoise de prévention du suicide is a non-profit institution working towards suicide prevention in Québec. It brings together organizations as well as people who wish to act in an effective and concerted way with the goal to prevent suicide.

The aims of the Association québécoise de prévention du suicide:

- to mobilize public opinion and decision makers on the extent of suicide problems in Québec
- to promote measures supporting the emergence of a socio-political context favourable to suicide prevention
- to support suicide prevention centers and any other resource working towards this cause
- to support empowerment and dialogue among individuals from various backgrounds that are likely to become partners.

Principal activities of the AQPS:

- Citizen engagement project, “Ajouter ma voix”
- National suicide prevention week
- World Day of suicide prevention
- Accredited training of stakeholders and gatekeepers
- Bi-annual Grand Forum de la Prévention du Suicide

Awards

The Morselli Medal is awarded every two years by the International Academy for Suicide Research (IASR) to an individual who has made an outstanding and important lifetime contribution to the study of suicidal behaviour and/or suicide prevention. This is the Academy's most distinguished award and is intended to be a "lifetime achievement" award. The Award is named in honour of Enrico Morselli, late of the University of Genoa School of Medicine who is regarded as being the first scientific, statistically informed epidemiologist in suicidology.

2013 Winners of the Morselli Medal

Keith Hawton DSc is Professor of Psychiatry and Director of the Centre for Suicide Research at Oxford University Department of Psychiatry. He is also a National Institute for Health Research Senior Investigator. For more than thirty-five years he and his research group have been conducting investigations concerning the causes, treatment, prevention and outcome of suicidal behaviour. He has received the Stengel Research Award from the International Association for Suicide Prevention (1995), the Dublin Career Research Award from the American Association of Suicidology (2000), the Research Award of the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (2002) and the Lifetime Achievement Award from the European Symposium of Suicide and Suicidal Behaviour (2012). He has approximately 500 papers and chapters and 16 books. He is co-editor of The International Handbook of Suicide and Attempted Suicide (2000, Wiley), editor of Prevention and Treatment of Suicidal Behaviour: From Science to Practice (2005, Oxford University Press), co-author of By Their Own Young Hand: Deliberate Self Harm and Suicidal Ideas in Adolescents (2006, Jessica Kingsley Publishers) and co-editor of Suicide (a four volume major themes series) (Routledge 2012).

Marsha M. Linehan Ph.D., ABPP is a Professor of Psychology and of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Washington and is Director of the Behavioral Research and Therapy Clinics. She is the developer of Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT) a skills based treatment that is effective in reducing suicidal behavior as well as other mental disorders and is cost-effective compared to community treatments delivered by expert therapists. It is currently the gold-standard treatment for borderline personality disorder.

IASR Membership Information

There are three categories of IASR members: Junior members, Regular members and Fellows of the Academy.

Junior members are individuals engaged in suicide research under the direction of a mentor. Examples are postdoctoral trainees, doctoral or masters students. The duration of a junior membership is limited to 3 years at the end of which they will automatically be considered for regular membership.

Junior members:

- pay no dues
- have free access the electronic version of the journal
- are invited to the meeting
- receive the IASR newsletter
- are eligible for IASR Star Awards

Regular members are individuals who are engaged in ongoing research on suicide, either directly or as advisers, reviewers or consultants in an academic institution or equivalent.

Regular members:

- pay annual dues of $125 USD (US Dollars)
- receive a print copy of the journal
- have access the electronic version of the journal at no charge

Fellows of the Academy are individuals who have established a reputation as significant contributors to knowledge in the field of suicidal behavior. This is exemplified by directing and designing innovative research, making significant contributions to the peer reviewed literature and providing guidance to trainees and developing scientists. Fellows are appointed from among existing regular members or de novo from the scientific community.

Criteria for membership in the Academy

The person should be an outstanding and internationally recognized researcher in the field of suicidology as indicated by publications in peer review journals.

- The research need not necessarily be empirical research, but can include theoretical, ethical or legal research work.
- Should be highly recommended by peers.
- No history of scientific misconduct.

Application procedure for membership in the IASR

The applicant should submit an updated curriculum vitae along with letters of nomination from two (2) current full members.

Please use the online forms at www.suicide-research.org, or send your application material by mail to the IASR Secretary - Treasurer, Dr. Erkki Isometsä, at the following address: secretary@suicide-research.org

All materials received will be reviewed by the Membership Committee, and the applicant will be notified by letter of the Academy's decision.
